Thinking Out Loud

Further reverberations from the "advertising" war bond plates featuring a thread company's models and products are contained in an outspoken editorial published in the Parkston, South Dakota Advance. Editor of The Advance is Marvin T. Gilbertson. His editorial sums up the situation so adequately from the editor's standpoint that we reprint it here.

TODAY I FEEL MEAN

I'd like to know why all the world thinks country editors are all suckers. I want to kick in windows, shoot my neighbors' chickens with a bee-bee gun, and kick some people around.

A paper shortage, and my waste basket is piled high with government mail, most of which could just as well be eliminated, saving paper; the time in dictating it; and stenographers and mimegraphers in typing and running all that junk through the mimeograph. Think how much paper it would save!

The U. S. Treasury sends out pictures of pretty ladies wearing home made knitted and crocheted dresses, sweaters, etc., and it all turns out to be a space grab by some big eastern thread company. It seems that the U. S. Treasury thinks we're suckers, too. I sent the plates back unused, but on looking through some of the other country weeklies, I find that a few of them were taken in by the U. S. Treasury.

I don't mind donating space to the War Loan drives, the paper saving campaigns, and even the fat saving drive gets a wee bit of free publicity even if the big dailies get paid for their part in all the war campaigns. But when we of the country weeklies ask the government to advertise a little in all the weeklies, then it's a subsidy we're asking, and the U. S. Treasury get all worked up about it.

The newspapers of the state and nation can't do all the War Loan advertising by themselves, and so I've come before the local business men asking that they help pay part of the cost. Some have cooperated splendidly, for which I thank them very much. A few have suggested that I'm the person that benefits from every dollar spent in War loan advertising, that I'm trying to commercialize the War effort and cash in on it. To those few I would like to suggest that they look through the columns of the Advance each time there is a drive of any sort, and every week, for that matter, and see how much stuff isn't paid for, before accusing me of trying to commercialize anything.

I've tried to sell cooperative advertising, and after spending about a week in soliciting every individual I feel so low I could walk under a snake, and after each such effort, I swear I'll never try to sell another cooperative ad. But time heals, and after a while I think that probably I can sell another cooperative advertisement, and again I go calling, meeting with some rebuffs, a few becoming absolutely rude and insulting, but on the whole the most of you are genuinely cooperative, but, as I said before.

A lot of space grabbing big outfits send us pictures or gorgeous girls, beautiful scenes, workers in War plants, the new cars which we may expect after the war; what the big manufacturers are doing for the war effort (at 10 per cent plus, mind you) all free, exclusive in our city, and furnished in plate form if we ask for it.

They'll pay thousands and hundreds of thousands of dollars to get that into the magazines and large dailies, but they think country editors are all just a bunch of suckers. They keep sending it to us, even if we return the plate to the plate manufacturer or melt them up for our own use, and—

Today I feel mean . . .

DAY RANCH PICNIC

Friendship Circle was hostess Wednesday to all the other circles of the Women's Society of Christian Service at a potluck luncheon, picnic and swim on the Day Ranch in Gold Flat. Mrs. Beryl Granholm was in charge of the program and a silver offering was taken.

MADELINE HIMES PLEASED WITH RED CROSS WORK

Mrs. Richard Goyne has received letters telling of Miss Madeline Himes' Red Cross work in England.

In her first enthusiastic letter after reaching England, Miss Madeline Himes, Red Cross staff assistant, reports that the Red Cross overseas is an organization to be proud of.

Miss Himes was a resident of San Francisco two years prior to her departure for overseas duty. She was employed at the Presidio and at Fort Mason. She had lived in Nevada City before going to San Francisco. While here she was graduated from Mt. St. Mary's Academy and was employed as secretary to the district attorney. Her mother is Mrs. Grace Himes of Nevada City.

"The men tell me every day what it means to them and its only too apparent that a tremendous need is felled." she wrote. "So added to the thrill of a completely novel experience, is the satisfaction of doing necessary work."

Miss Himes' devotion to her job is all the more spotlighted when she tells of her bout with the measles with which, of all things, she was struck down with soon after her arrival. Her club director had been away and she was the sole operator of club servicing '500 men, spots and all.

Her living quarters are over the club where she resides alone. She said sitting in a trench in solitary grandeur during an air raid, complete in pajamas, overcoat and tin helmet, isn't as much fun as doing it in company.

One night she had a burglar, but the next day the entire post to a man volunteered to do "firewatch" and so many people prowled around with flashlights searching the premises that sleep was impossible. It would take a hardier burglar than that one evidently, to return as there was no reoccurrence of his visit.

OFFICERS OF FOREST SERVICE TOUR THIS AREA

High officials of the U. S. forest service were Monday and Tuesday on a tour of inspection of the Tahoe National Forest following a trip through the Plumas National Forest. In the party were Earl Loveridge chief of operations in Washington, D. C., W. L. Dutton chief of forest grazing also of the national capital, Regional Forester S. B. Show of San Francisco, P. D. Hanson, assistant to Show in charge of timber sales, Guerdon Ellis, supervisor of Tahoe National Forest, and Harry Camp, in charge of natural resources of the Tahoe Forest, and L. J. Jefferson, assistant chief of operations from the San Francisco regional office.

The party spent most of Monday in the Camptonville sections, Yuba County, and Tuesday visited Forest Hill, Placer County, where important road and timber projects are being considered.

GRAY SQUIRRELS DESTROY GREEN WALNUT CROP

While the sight of numerous grey squirrels capering around the yards and streets of the city in their graceful pursuit of things good to eat is most pleasing, nevertheless these rodents are destroying a large part of the local walnut crop, as is evidenced by a trip around the neighborhood.

This year, more so than for any previous year, they are eating the nuts green, and in getting them they knock down whole clumps of the unripe nuts, which are of course a total loss.

In some yards the ground under the trees is literally covered with the refuse of these forages which goes on from early morning until sundown.

In desperation for a remedy Game Warden Earl Hiscox has been appealed to and states that in cases like this it is of course permissable to destroy the squirrels and much as residents dislike to do it, it becomes necessary to decimate them in order to permit the crop to ripen.

In former years the squirrels usually did not seek the nuts until after they had matured in the fall, and to that there was no particular objection on the part of gardeners.

Some of our local weather prognostigators are prophesying a heavy winter to come on account of this new urge on the part of the squirrels to fatten up on a nut diet.

LOTS DRAWN FOR ANTELOPE HUNT

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 17—From among the 3910 applications for antelope hunting permits filed with the State Division of Fish and Game 500 names were drawn Friday, August 11, to determine to whom these permits would be issued.

The drawing was held in Sacramento under the direction of H. R. Dunbar, chief of the Division's Bureau of Lisenses, with local sportsmen and news men present. Sportsmen assisting at the drawing until its completion were Emil Ott, of the Sacramento Mt. Ralston Fish Planting Club, Fred Hartzell, Capitol Rod and Gun Club, and Elmer Boss of Stockton Rod and Reel Club. Mrs. Eva Brocchini, of the Capitol's Women's Conservation Club also took part in the drawing.

Before the end of the day notification was in the mail to the lucky winners, the first of whom was Vernon S. Dallmen of Sacramento. John M. Allen of Fall River Mills was the second name to be pulled, and Mrs. Charlotte L. Brown of Adin, the third.

Thirty per cent of the winning applicants came from the counties of Modoc, Siskiyou, Lassen, Plumas and Shasta. Residents of counties in the vicinity of San Francisco bay drew another thirty per cent. and the remainder were from various sections of the state. These 500 applicants have until August 21 to reply and obtain a permit. The numbers of those failing to reply by that date will be assigned to alternate candidates. Three hundred alternate numbers were also drawn on August 11 to be used for this purpose.

SO YOU ARE TIRED?

So you are tired mister, and think you will rest a bit,
You have been working pretty steady and you're getting sick of it.
You think the war is ending, so you are slowing down the pace,
That's what you may be thinking, sir, but it just ain't the case.
What would you think, sir, if we quit because we're tired too?
We're flesh and blood and human, and we're just as tired as you.
Did you ever dig a fox-hole and climb down deep inside?
And wish it went to China so you'd have some place to hide.
While motored "buzzards" packed with guns were circling overhead;
And filled the ground around you with hot, exploding lead.
And did you ever ig out mister, from debris and dirt,
And feel yourself all over, to see if you were hurt,
And feel you couldn't move, though you weren't hurt at all.
And feel so durn relieved that you just sit there are bawl,
Were you ever hungry mister, not the kind that good soon gluts,
But a gnawing, cutting hunger, that bites into your guts
I's a homestick huuger, mister, and it digs around inside
And its got you in its clutches and there's no place to hide.
Were you ever dirty, mister, not the wilty-collar kind,
But the oozy, shiny, messy dirt and gritty kinds that grind?
Did you ever mind the heat, sir, not the kind that makes sweat run,
But the kind that drives you crazy till you even curse the sun?
Were you ever weary mister, I mean so tired, you know,
When your feet ain't got no feelin' and your legs don't want to go?
But we keep agoing, mister, you can bet your life we do,
And let me tell you, mister, we expect the same of you.

WIDE APPROVAL FOR POST WAR VETERANS LOAN

Re-establishment of World War II men and women veterans in the constructive post war community life of the nation they now serving so valiantly is a major objective of Proposition No. 1, the $30,000,000 Veterans Home and Farm Bond issue on the November 7th state election ballot, according to Ed W. Bolt, of Sa nFrancisco, prominent veterans leader, state chairman of the Veterans Farm and Home Committee. This measure, patterned after the highly successful bond issue of 1922, 1926, 1930 and 1934 enabling 19,000 veterans of World War 1 to acquire $89,000,000 in homes and farms through California Veterans Board loans, would afford the service folks of the present global conflict similar opportunities. The proposal has received the unanimous endersements of scores of influential organizations and groups, representing many millions of public spirited patriotic men and women of California.

"Men and women serving under the flag of the United States fighting forces are looking forward to the days of victory ahead, when they can return to their own home cities and towns, and take their proper and well deserved places in the state and community," Bolt said. "Ownership of their own home is a dream carried by all the courageous defenders of our liberty.

"The years and months of lasting peace should hold for them assurances of security and a definite interest in the welfare of their community. The surest attainment of this permanent happiness is to acquire one's own home or farm, be a part of the family and community life, and achieve a self reliant place in the growing future.

"Adoption of Proposition No. 1 by California voters on November 7 will offer the veterans of World War II the type of appreciation of their sacrifices that they deserve. Their families and neighbors, fully aware of this offered security, are in the forefront of this voluntary campaign to achieve a unanimous approval of this gesture of appreciatio nto our returning California veterans.

HOUSER TO TOUR 54 COUNTIES IN HIS CAMPAIGN

Lieutenant Governor Fred Houser candidate for United States Senator at the November 7th election, this week opened his final campaign tour of the California with a schedule which will carry him into at least 54 of the state's 58 counties.

LIEUT. GOV. FRED HOUSER
Candidate for United States Senate

"I want to meet the people in every community and every county in California and talk to them frankly about their problems with the federal government," Houser said.

"I know some of those problems are complex and provide issues which can only be settled in the congress and in the senate of the United States. With many of these problems I am already familiar because of my three term experience in the state legislature. I know, for instance, of the great need for adequate water supply in the central valley, the threat which hangs over Southern California of losing a part of its precious water supply through the negligence of the incumbent junior senator, and the need for flood control in various sections of the state.

"But there are other local issues about which I want to consult with the people in those communities. They must have hard working representation in Washington if their local problems are to be solved, and I intend to give that kind of representation if elected in November."

The first week of Houser's tour takes him through the counties of Inyo, Mono, Mariposa, Tuolumne, Calaveras, Amador, El Dorado, Placer and Nevada.

One of 19 war reelief and welfare agencies which receives support from the local fund raising organization, United China Relief helps to finance the work of the emergency medical service training schools of the Chinese Army Medical administration.

Dr. Sweet's message disclosed that in addition to the American trained medical units serving in the Burma battle, a second group from the emergency training schools has been assigned to the Chinese troop training center in India.

GOOFY DAYS ARE HERE AGAIN

By CLEM WHITAKER

The goofy era is here again, politically speaking, with bills being pressed in congress to provide unemployment insurance benefits up to $35 a week per family, and with an old age pension plan proposed in California which, if it had been in effect last year, would have paid $180 a month to each of 400,000 qualified claimants.

The credo of the new crop of would be economic royalists seems to be :"Why work—When loafing can be made to pay better dividends."?

Ham and Eggs for Everybody, with $30 Every Thursday, which startled California's economic dieticians in 1938 and 1939 was miply piker's fare compared to the misnamed $60-at-60" pension scheme on this year's November ballot.

For the $60 a month figure proposed under Proposition 11 is cimply the minimum—and ther is no maximum! There's a floor but no ceiling!

Proposition 11, which is technically known as the California Employment and Retirement Mutual Insurance Plan" would repeal the present state sales tax and enact in its stead a 3% gross income tax—a flat 3% levy on general sales and gross receipts.

On the basis of estimated 1943 gross receipts of all business firms and individuals in California, this tax would amount to new and additional taxes of approximately one billion dollars a year — increasing the cost of state government more than 400% at one fell swoop. Even on the basis of more normal business levels as in the y,ears 1937 to 1939 the additional tax, according to an analysis just completed by the state chamber of commerce would amount to over 500 million dollars.

The joker provisions, which would permit pension payments far in excess of the earnings of most gainfully employed citizens, is handled in this fashion.

Twenty per cent of revenues derived from the tax, but not exceeding $100,000,000 are to go for the general support of state government and public schools. The remaining 80% of gross income tax receipts, up to $500,000,000 and all such receipt between that amount and ole billion dollars are to go into the pension fund. And if ther is any mone left in the pension fund in any given month after the $60 minimum is paid, the balance is to be divided among the old age pensioners the following month, in addition to the $60 then due. Then, in the event the tax yields more than one billion dollars annually, 90% of the excess is to go to swell pension payments.

Last year on that basis, the actual pension would have amounted to $180 per month for each of 400,000 eligible pensioners.

GOVERNMENT BY SUBTERFURGE

A matter of genuine public concern is involved in the charges by Congressman Martin Dies that the CIO Political Action Committee i sinfluencing government employes to violate the Hatch Act. passed to prohibit the participation of federal employes in political campaigns. Unless the charges are utterly false, they cannot be disregarded or written off as political by-play. The general public—Democrats and Republicans alike—want the facts.

In support of his accusation, the Texas congressman has submitted telephone and telegraph records showing frequent communication between the CIO political arm and 77 persons employed in various federal agencies. One C. B. Baldwin, assistant chairman of the Political Action Committee, is alleged by Dies to have remained on the federal payroll for five months after assuming his post with the CIO political group.

Whether the charges are proved true or false, it is evident that a close and disturbing relationship exists between many high government officials and the CIO Political Action Committee, described by Dies as being "in complete collaboration with the communists and their allied organizations in this country."

One is not bound at this time to accept the Dies definition of the CIO-PAC as a communist affiliate, though it is clearly a special political pessure group. And when a pressure group—right wing or left wing—is so intimately in consultation with so many key officials in our government, the public nees to know about it.

If, knowing the facts, the public approves of the collaboration, it will support in office those officials who are party to it ,and, if consistent, cause the removal of the Hatch Act, which would prohibit such actions. If on the other hand, the public still frowns on public officials too amenable to outside pressure and all its implications, the voting machinery to correct the situation is at hand.

Whatever the truth may be, a thorough going investigation is in order, for the public can act only when it knows the facts. We want no government by subterfuge here.— Contributed.

GEORGE LEGG WRITES HOUSER AN OPEN LETTER

AN OPEN LETTER TO LT. GOV. FREDERICK W. HOUSER

Our real great president Theodore Roosevelt advocated curbing swollen fortunes for the good of our country. He believed failure to do this would invite disaster.

I once heard Francis J. Heeney say that if the people of California did not do something to conserve our water resources the power companies would build a machine that would make the old Southern Pacific machine look like a wheel barrow.

In the San Francisco Chronicle supplement "This Week" August 13 Maury Maverick writes about "The Little People."

He says: "If we are to preserve our way of life, and not go into some form of collectivism we must balance the trend to bigness, etc."

It is alleged a few large corporations have been given the lion's share of war contracts and their fortunes are now swollen beyond all proportions.

It appears that the Pacific Gas & Electric Company is accused of having piled up an excess profit in 1943 of some Fifteen Million dollars. This is only one corporation of many that is piling up unheard of millions.

Can you predict where we will land? Can you offer a solution of the problem?

I have heard that the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. has recently entered into a contract with our government to take over the electric energy generated at Shasta Dam at the rate of 3 and one third mills per KW. and I do know that little people like myself pay 40 mills for this energy. A profit of 12 for one. Some years ago my investigation developed large consumers of electric energy paid this company 10 mills per KW. One of such consumers was the city of Alameda and they netted a profit of some quarter of a million dollars in distributing this energy to the public, per annum.

It is the taxpayers money that built the Shasta Dam. Do you think Mr. Houser it is fair to the little people to permit such conditions to continue?

Your answer will be appreciated.

GEORGE A. LEGG.

SENATE COM. TO HOLD POST WAR HEARING HERE

Sen. Jesse M. Mayo, chairman of the state senate sub-committee on post war construction has sent the following letter to Mayor Benjamin Hall.

My dear sir: A subcommittee of the senate committee on post war construction will hold a hearing in the Nevada County courthouse at Nevada City on Friday, September 8, beginning at 10 a. m. for the purpose of determining what public works projects your community and contiguous and adjacent political subdivisions intend to undertake at the close of the present war.

This committee pursuant to senate resolution No. 125, a copy of which is attached, was created by the state senate at the 1943 session of the legislature, to investigate and determine the naure and location of public works projects which, in the judgment of the committee. should be included in a post war construction program, particularly those projects which will best serve to provide employment in all parts of the state when the present war terminates.

You can render most valuable assistance if you and members of the city council will submit to the committee at its hearing in your city a statement containing the following information.

1 A list of the contemplated public works projects under your political jurisdiction, listed in order of urgency and need.

2 Estimated cost of each project.

3 The amount and kind of labor required for each project, and the amount and nature of material required for each.

4 A statement as to whether or not, plans and suecifications are now available for each project listed, and if not, when can they be completed.

5 A statement as to the ability of your community to finance the proposed projects without outside assistance, or if federal or state assistance is later available for actual construction, what proportion of the cost of each project can you finance locally?

At the recent special session of the legislature, an allocation was appropriated to the cities and the counties on the basis of a minimum for each county and city for making plans and specifications and the acquiring of sites and rights of way for future construction of public works. This allocation is to be matched by local funds. The allocation for your city amounts to $5,196.00.

This committee will be pleased to discuss these matters with you, and to answer any questions concerning the state's position in any cooperative program that may be realized at some future session of the legislature.

You will confer a favor on this committee if you will pass the information on this hearing on to the of ficers of any other political subdivisons in your area, such as reclamation, water, sanitation and other special districts, as well as to those citizens who may have a particular public interest in the matter.

Believing that private enterprise must provide the bulk of jobs in private industry at the close of the war for the returning members of the armed forces, as well as to those now engaged in war production, this committee would also be pleased to hear from representatives of agriculture, industry and labor at the meeting in Nevada City their suggestions regarding any legislation this committee might propose at the 1945 session of the legislature to facilitate and make possible post war jobs in private industry.

SAD NEWS-NO REVIEW OF CRAT RULE BY COURTS

By RALPH H. TAYLOR

The rural people of America, because they have been quick to object when natural laws were violated by man made mandates, and have always been zealous guardians of individual freedom, often have exercised a stabilizing influence on the nation and have played a vital role in keeping the country from veering too far either to the right or left.

Citizens in rural areas, in keeping with that tradition, generally have taken their partnership in government seriously and have kept fairly close tab on trends in public affairs and on the acts of their public officials.

In the hurricane of war, hewever, rural people, as well as city people, have put winning the battle for survival ahead of all else—and have acquiesced in the suspension of many domecratic processes, as well as the imposition of many artificial restraints on the nation's economy.

The important consideration, now, is that rural America, as an integral part of its post war planning, should take the lead in demanding the return to normal, orderly government—and a sound ecenomy—once the emergency has ended.

That responsibility, theoretically, should not rest any more heavily on rural America than on urban America—but practically, rural people are better prepared, both by temperament and environment, to assume the obligation. The tempo of life on the farm, and in the towns and villages, is more normal than the hectic pace of the cities—and consequently, the rural public pulse should more quickly return to normal. Then, again, the public blood pressure is less affected by minority "pressure groups" in rural areas than in congested districts. And the farmer, who must abide by natural laws in his daily life or quickly pay the consequences, certainly has every reason to know that man made dictums which run contrary to natural laws cannot long be tolerated in the nation.

It is this writer's opinion that farm organizations, and farm people generally, must lead the way in a return not only to a sound, peacetime economy, but to a sound peacetime government, stripped of emergency war time powers—and genuinely responsive to the will of the people. And that is a job of post war planning which will take grim determination, as well as planning, for power is a habit forming political drug—not easily given up.

Already evidence abounds that federal departments, under the stress of war, have assumed or have been granted powers which would destroy individual liberty and democratic government, unless revoked at the first opportunity.

Trial by a jury of his peers is one of the inalienable rights of every American citizens, but there are innumerable instances today in which government bureaus, commissions and departments simply "lay down the law"—with the lowly citizen having no appeal from their decisions.

Astounding proof of this was the recent decision of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia that orders issued by the War Labor Board are not reviewable by the courts.

"It is clear and undisputed", said the decision, "that no statute authorizes review."

That, certainly, is a case in which the people should act—and act promptly—to see that legislation is forthcoming which will guarantee the citizen his right to a court hearing. But that is only one case in many. While in other instances, the court reviews are theoretically possible, they have been made practically impossible.

Another phase of post war planning to guarantee peace time recovery, politically as well as economically, is a thorough program of pruning out the deadwood and eliminating thousands of unnecessary bureaus and commissions—with their millions of employes—so that tax payers can have relief from needless burdens. That will be a tremendous undertaking, for many war time governmental agencies already are seeking means of becoming permanent fixtures.

Most important of all, probably, is the need, when the war is done, of ridding the nation of rationing, price fixing, ceilings, subsidies and all of the other antifciial accoutrements of an artificial economy, born of war—but destined to survive in the post war period, if advocates of a "controlled econmy" can save them.

Not only rural America, but all America has a real job to do, if government is to return to normal when the war is ended. And it must be returned to normal, if the nation is to avert the tragedy of economic and political chaos after the chaos of war.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

Ella Sproule versus the "Horseless Carriage"

Miss Ella Sproule is a town legend. Never could get used to automobiles. Said there ought to be a law to ban the pesky things.

Finally, Miss Ella went to Bermuda where automobiles were outlawed. Then the Allies need bases there—and now Miss Ella watches jeeps whiz by and mutters, "There ought to be a law!"

Funny how certain folks, who don't like something, think it ought to be prohibited. Or else they try to run away from it, and it catches up with them—like Progress will.

Take the question of Prohibition versus Moderation. Even today, after Prohibition's dismal failure, you can hear well-meaning people say: "There ought to be another law."

From where I sit, there ought to be, instead, more facing of the facts—more realization that no law can ever take the place of tolerance and moderation, and decent law enforcement under proper regulation.

SCOUTS ENJOY CAMP PAHATSI

Latest reports from Camp Pahatsi indicate that the group consisting of over eighty scouts and staff members are having a very enjoyable time. Last Sundty evening scouts representing practically every community in the Tahoe Area rolled into camp on Nevada county and Crockard Chevrolet buses while some of them were brought by their parents. After they had set up and bunked in their tents they enjoyed their first camp meal, which was excellent and in keeping with the fine job that is being done by the camp cooks, Mrs. Iva Etephens and her associate, Mrs. Hensley. That evening the opening campfire was conducted under the leadership of Harold E. Chastain associate camp director and in charge of activities. The senior and junior staff members were introduced to the scouts, Camp rules were read and basic instruction given. The campfire also included some singing and fellowship. Just before the close, the camp director, Robert H. Frank, gave a word of welcome to the scouts and told them they hoped they would have a fine stay here.

Other activities this week will include baseball games between camp troops A under the scout mastership of Lester Richards, of Grass Valley and camp troop B under the scout mastership of F. M. McKinney, scout master of Troop 19. The winner is to play the camp staff. Additional activities include a horseshoe tournament, a 14 mile hike, special nature hikes and waterfront activities. Dr. Lucas Empey, camp physician is seeing that the camp is kept clean and healthy. Week end visitors included Howard Snelling, of Penryn a veteran scouter and member of the camping and activities committee, James R. Johnson, council president has sent a note to all executive borad members and district commissioners urging that they attend a scouters luncheon at Pahatsi this coming Saturday.

FARM NEWS

CATTLE SLAUGHTER

With heavy runs of cattle beginning to come to market, the War Food Administration points out that cattle slaughter regulations in no way restrict the number of that may be slaughtered. This fact is one that apparently has not been understood by many people, Nevada County AAA chairman says.

Farmers may slaughter and deliver meat from any cattle or other livestock owned by them without any license or permit and without making and report of such deliveries to the government. Commercial packers and persons who slaughter livestock exclusively for others on a fee basis must obtain slaughtering licenses from WFA and slaughterers of 50 or more head of cattle weekly or 300 or more livestock annually must turn in monthly reports to WFA. Slaughterers wo kill more than 51 head of cattle weekly that produce "army style" beef must set aside a percentage for government purchase which must be federally inspected. Slaughterers must comply with OPA regulations regarding grading of the meat and collection of ration points. These regulations pertain to licensing, grading, set-aside for government purchase and collection of ration points, but they do not restrict the number of cattle tha may be slaughtered.

LIVE CATTLE

The price stabilization program for cattle establishes high and low limits on the average price which packers must pay for live cattle if they wish to qualify for government subsidy payments, but the program does not fix price ceilings on live cattle.

Under the program, maximum and minimum prices have been established for each of the six principal grades of beef, and subsidies ranging from 50 cents to $1.45 a 100 pounds are payable on each of these grades. However, a packer may pay below the minimum prices on one or more grades of cattle then offset this deficit by paying above the maximum prices set for other grades, and still qualify for the full subsidy payments on all cattle slaughtered. To do this, the average cost of all the cattle he buys must be somewhere within the high and low limits, or deductions will be made from his subsidy payments. The cattle stabilization program is entirely independent of the price support program for hogs under which subsidies are paid to packers who meet the support prices.

Only beef now rationed is steaks and roasts from commercial good and choice grades. All other beef is ration free after the WFA food order amendment removed all utility beef from rationing on August 13. Pork hams and loins went back on the ration list on that date. Feed wheat obtained under the CCC feed wheat program may now be used for any and all classes of livestock and poultry. Restrictions regarding its use which resulted from the tight feed situation have been removed. Farm real estate taxes per acre during 1943 remained about the same as in 1942 and at the same level as in 1943, the low point for taxes during the depression period.

Ability and Responsibility

WHEN a particularly tough and important job comes along, it usually lands in the lap of someone who is already doing a lot of other jobs well.

People like this—who are used to getting results—aren't too plentiful. They need to have both ability and a sense of responsibility. One alone won't do—for ability can sometimes be misdirected, and a sense of responsibility without ability can lead to troublesome meddling.

It's men with this combination of talents who have been carrying a heavy load on the home front these past few years. On the farm and in industry they've been meeting—and solving—the difficult wartime problems of production.

After the war is won, somebody must shoulder the equally big job of getting this nation back into peacetime production, of laying the groundwork for the better and more prosperous America we all want. This is a challenge, and an opportunity, for the producers of America—for the men and women who have a sense of responsibility and have shown their ability to get things done. *General Electric Co., Schenectady, N. Corporal Ann Ferguson Now In Hawaiian Islands

One of California's most recent soldiers to reach an overseas destination the Hawaiian Islands, is Cpl. Ann D. Ferguson, Nevada City.

The Women's Army Corps company to which they are assigned not only has the distinction of being the first ever to be sent into the Pacific, but is the first Air Transport Command company of WACS to be sent into any overseas theater.

Cpl. Ferguson is the wife of Gordon S. Ferguson, a civil engineer now working with a private concern in Los Angeles. When war took him away from home, she felt a desire to serve in whatever capacity she was needed, so enlisted in the Army in March 1943. She received basic training at the 5th WAC Training Center, Monticello, Ark. and later was sent to Motor Transport school at Ft. Des Moines. Her first duty assignment was with the Air Transport Command company of the 7th Ferrying Group, Great Falls, Montana, where she was dispatcher in the motor pool.

A sidelight to preparation for departure for overseas of this first ATC WAC company is the fact that the women volunteered 100% contribution to the Red Cross Blood Bank. This was their farewell gesture before leaving home soil, and their way of doing just an extra bit to help the war along.

Hawaii is just as interesting and exciting as pre war travel folders have pictured it—and being stationed there as a soldier doesn't diminish its' attractions in the opinion of the California women.

Two New NID Posts Created

The Nevada Irrigation District board of directors has created two offices on its staff, both to be filled by present employes. The new positions are cashier and auditor, to be filled by Miss Elizabeth Johnson and by Miss Ruth Michaels, respectfully.

The board discussed the household water rates situation and indicated that victory gardens were proving quite a drain on the water supply. Such users are charged a flat rate of $1.50 per month inside the district and $1.75 a month outside. Estimated water for such users, has largely been exceeded, but the directors decided to take no action until further studies are made.

NOTICE
